DEATH OF DR. BEYE, GAMMA, HEAVY LOSS TO PROFESSION

Phi Rho Sigma Fraternity suffered a heavy loss when Dr. Howard Lombard Beye, Gamma, head of the general surgery department of the University of Iowa college of medicine, was fatally injured in an automobile collision near Marshalltown, Iowa, on September 29, 1936.

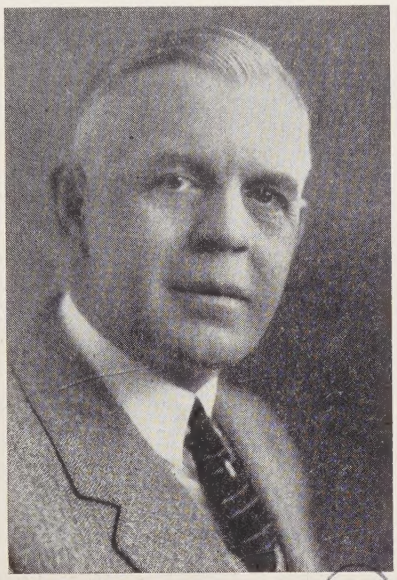
The accident, which also caused serious injuries to Dr. James A. Edwards, Iota, superintendent of the Oakdale (Iowa) sanitarium, cut short at 50 years the career of a man who was an asset not only to the Fraternity because of his lively interest in its affairs, but—what is more important—to the profession of medicine because, as his superior, Dean MacEwen of the medical college, said, he was "one of the cleverest surgeons and leading teachers of surgery in the country." Significant evidence of Dr. Beye's interest in his fraternity and his profession are the facts that on September 18—only eleven days before his death—he did his part in the rushing program of Mu Chapter by addressing the pledges and actives at a rushing smoker, and that, when the fatal accident occurred, he was on his way to Sioux City, Iowa, to speak at a meeting of the Woodbury County Medical Society.

Went To Iowa In 1914

Dr. Beye was born on September 24, 1886, in Oak Park, Illinois, graduating from the Oak Park high school in 1904. He went from there to the University of Wisconsin, where he received his B.S. degree in 1909, and then to Rush Medical College, Chicago, which awarded him an M.D. in 1911. After interning at the Cook County hospital for two and one-half years, and teaching nursing in the school for nurses at Rush from 1912 to 1913, he went to the University of Iowa in 1914, remaining there until his death except for an 18-month period during the World War when he served as captain in the medical corps of the United States Army.

Starting as an instructor in surgery in 1914, Dr. Beye rapidly moved up to the positions of assistant professor in 1919, associate professor in 1922, full professor in 1923, and head of the surgery department in 1927. In 1932 he was made a member of the interim administrative committee which directed the affairs of the college of medicine until Dr. Ewen MacEwen became dean in 1935. He was also a member of the board in control of athletics.

Author of many medical articles published in various national and state journals, Dr. Beye was also a member of many medical organizations, including the American Medical Association, the Iowa State Medical Society, the American College of Surgeons, the American Association of Thoracic Surgery, and the American Surgical Association. He is survived by his widow and six children.



Dr. Edward M. Myers

CAT.

Dr. Beye was paid this fine tribute by President Eugene A. Gilmore, of the University of Iowa:

"In the untimely and tragic death of Dr. Howard L. Beye, the university has lost one of its most valuable and able members. He was a great surgeon and an inspiring teacher, a wise, trusted and independent counsellor.

"He was a generous and loyal friend, a good and useful citizen, highly esteemed by everyone and beloved by his colleagues and students.

"He will be greatly missed. His place in the professional world and in the hearts of his friends can hardly be filled."

PHI RHO GOES TO BALUCHISTAN

Phi Rhos who would "point with pride" at the achievements of their fraternity brothers now have a new and entirely novel cause for satisfaction. Of two physicians in the United States who will serve in 1937 in the renowned eye clinic of Col. H. L. Holland at Shikarpur, India, Dr. Philip Harold Decker, Lambda Phi '17, is one. He sailed November 8, planning to reach his destination in far-away Baluchistan by way of London and Vienna, where he will attend clinics.

Located in northwestern India, about a thousand miles inland from Bombay, the Shikarpur clinic was established more than 30 years ago by Colonel Holland, of the British India Medical Service. Since then it has furnished the only eye surgery available to many millions of people and today performs a far greater volume of eye surgery (from three to five thousand major operations each winter season) than any other eye clinic in the world during a comparable period of time. This is due, of course, to the solitariness of the institution and the natural prevalence of eye diseases in India, as well as to the ability of Dr. Holland. The service furnished by the Holland clinic is the only surgery done in Shikarpur—a city of approximately 50 thousand native population, with few other English-speaking persons outside of the clinic surgeons—and even it is discontinued at the conclusion of the winter season, when the clinic is disbanded. All the work is done without charge and patients come from many hundreds of miles away. Dr. Holland himself has restored sight to more than 35,000 persons who had been blinded by cataracts.

His work concluded next May, Dr. Decker plans to return to his place on the staff of the Williamsport (Pennsylvania) Hospital staff by way of China and Japan.

IOWA SOCIETY ELECTS MYERS TO PRESIDENCY

Dr. Edward Morrison Myers, Alpha '00, physician and surgeon of Boone, Iowa, is president-elect of the Iowa State Medical Society, having been chosen during the past summer to take office in May, 1937.

Dr. Myers was born in Otley, Marion County, Iowa, May 12, 1872. He was educated in the Burlington, Iowa, high school, graduating in 1889, and received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Iowa Wesleyan in 1893 and his Master's degree in 1896. While at Wesleyan he became a member of Phi Delta Theta, president of the Iowa Wesleyan Publishing Company, and a member of the glee club and of the Hamline Literary Society. He received his medical degree from Northwestern University, where he became a member of Phi Rho Sigma, in 1900, and was a member of the house staff of Mercy Hospital, Chicago, from 1900 to 1902. In 1902 he located in Boone, where he has specialized in surgery and became a member of the Boone County Hospital staff.

Dr. Myers is a member of the American Medical Association and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, being chairman of the latter organization's executive committee for Iowa. He also is affiliated with the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States and American Academy of Medicine, and was a trustee of the Iowa Society, 1930-36. He is president of the Iowa state board of health.

Dr. Myers married Margaret Ross of Frankfort, Indiana, and is the father of two sons. He is a Methodist, Mason, Rotarian, and past exalted ruler of the Elks at Boone.

TRAYLOR CHOSEN HEAD OF GEORGIA ASSOCIATION

Dr. George Albert Traylor, Chi Alpha '04, clinical professor of surgery in the Medical Department of the University of Georgia, has been elected president of the Medical Association of Georgia for the year 1936-1937.

The new office is but one of several high positions Dr. Traylor has held during his long career as a medical educator and practitioner. He has served two terms as first vice-president of the Association; has twice been elected president of the Richmond County Medical Society; is past-president of the Tenth District Medical Society; was for some time a member and chairman of the Richmond County board of health; and is now secretary of the section on railway surgery of the Southern Medical Association. He holds fellowships in the American Medical Association, the American College of Surgeons, and the Southeastern Surgical Congress.

Born in Abbeville County, South Carolina, on October 7, 1879, Dr. Traylor attended school at McCormick, South Carolina, and at Furman University, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Science there in 1900. After teaching school for a year, he entered the Medical College of Georgia, now the Medical Department of the University of Georgia, graduating in 1904 with an M.D. and an honorary certificate. He served his internship at the Augusta City Hospital and located in Augusta as the surgical assistant of the late Dr. Thomas R. Wright. He married Louise Bothwell, of the same city, in 1912.

Dr. Traylor has been clinical professor of surgery at the University of Georgia for the last 14 years, besides having held various other positions in the same school. He has spent considerable time in the clinics of Vienna and Breslau and in the medical centers of this country.

While serving with the medical corps of the Army during the World War, Dr. Traylor was stationed at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia; Rockefeller Institute, New York; Bellevue Hospital, New York; Embarkation Hospital, Hoffman Island, New York; Debarkation Hospital, Staten Island, New York; and U. S. Army General Hospital No. 1, New York. He was quickly promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Dr. Traylor is a Mason and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. In 1925 he was elected to membership in Alpha Omega Alpha.

PIN POUND

Have you lost your fraternity pin?—Or pawned it in an hour of need?—Or, in a moment of weakness, pinned it on the bosom of some pin-gathering "sweetheart of Sigma Chi"? If so, and conscience or fraternal pride moves you to a desire to regain your misplaced emblem of Fraternity, go to Koplik's—J. B. Koplik's & Co., Inc., 101 Park Row, in New York City, the mecca of many a wandering fraternity pin.

Who are Koplik's, you ask? "The biggest secondhand-fraternity-pin dealers in the United States," said Fortune magazine in October, 1936, supporting its assertion with the statement of fact that "They (Koplik's) sell as many as 700 pins a year at prices ranging from $4 to $25." The Koplik's fame is so far-reaching (from coast to coast), says Fortune, that half their business is done by mail-order.

Acquiring most of their pins from old-gold dealers and pawnbrokers throughout the country, the Koplik's "sell most of them in June when college graduates come to New York to work and want a pin to replace the one they gave to a girl back home." Their average selling price is $12, which is about half the cost of a new pin. Proud of their professional standing, Koplik's will sell to no one who cannot identify himself as a member of the fraternity whose pin he seeks.

Phi Rhos planning to apply to Koplik's for assistance should remember that each Phi Rho pin bears the number assigned to its original owner and recorded at the Central Office.

CHAPTER NEWS

MU CHAPTER
University of Iowa

The chapter has pledged the following eleven men: Carson B. Murdy, Aberdeen, South Dakota; Weller Tidball, Independence, Iowa; Ferris Burleson, Fort Dodge, Iowa; Charles Lenaghan and Earl Haughton, Davenport, Iowa; Stanley Severson, Slater, Iowa; Charles Sokol, Collins, Iowa; Earl Hershberger, Kalona, Iowa; John Sawin, Ames, Iowa; Edwin Emerson, Bowen, Iowa; and Charles Bergtholdt, Sioux City, Iowa.

The annual rushing smoker took place on September 18 at the chapter house, with approximately 50 men in attendance. The late Dr. Howard L. Beye, Gamma, who lost his life on September 29 as the result of an automobile accident, was the speaker. Dr. Bennet contributed a variety of card and sleight-of-hand tricks to the program of entertainment, and the rest of the evening was spent informally, concluding with a lunch served in the chapter house dining room.

Dr. E. H. Barg and Dr. Worthy Boden, both Mu '35, are senior interns in the University of Iowa State Hospital, the former in surgery and the latter in otolaryngology.

Dr. Adrian Shroeder, Mu '35, visited the chapter house on September 30.

THETA TAU CHAPTER
University of Minnesota

The chapter announces the pledging of the following men: Richard A. Anderson, Joseph Carlisle, John Haserick, Norman Tostenson, William D. Johnson, and John Kelly, all of Minneapolis; Alfred Fulton and Dean O. Meredith, both of St. Paul; C. Douglas Adkins, Thief River Falls, Minn.; Ralph Armstrong, Mahnomen, Minn.; Robert Eugene Arnot, Park River, N. D.; Floyd John Lewis, Tracy, Minn.; Thomas Seery, Muskegon, Michigan; Bernhoff R. Skogmo, Clark, S. D.; and Gerald Taylor, St. James, Minn.

On the week-end of October 10 the chapter was host to eight fraternity brothers from Iota Chapter, at the University of Nebraska, who attended the Nebraska-Minnesota football game.

ZETA CHAPTER
University of Michigan

The chapter has pledged 17 men, of whom two—Benjamin Jeffries and George Chabut—are from the class of '39 and the remaining 15 are from the class of 1940. In the latter group are: Waner R. Austin, Seattle, Washington; Arby Bailey, Alma, Michigan; John Bayless; John Benson, Flint, Michigan; Laurence Comstock, Albion, Michigan; Dale Crosby, Bellevue, Ohio; Cliff Jaaksi, Ishpeming, Michigan; Harold Jesurun, Curacao, Dutch West Indies; Henry J. Lange, and Stephen J. Lange, Wyandotte, Michigan; William Anderson; Donald S. Patterson, Detroit, Michigan; Charles Schoff, Kalamazoo, Mich.; John Spriggs, Belleville, Michigan; and William Anger, Royal Oak, Michigan.

The fall Pledge Formal was held in the chapter house on October 31, which was homecoming day at the University of Michigan. Many of the younger Zeta alumni were present.

CHI CHAPTER
University of Pittsburgh

The chapter opened its rushing program with a "get acquainted" luncheon for the men of the first-year class. This was followed later in the day by an Alumni Party at the Metropolitan Club at which the freshmen were introduced to Phi Rho alumni and faculty members. During the ensuing two weeks, ten freshmen were pledged from a select group in the first-year class. The rushing program was appropriately closed with an address on "Problems Confronting a Medical Freshman" by Dr. George J. Kastlin. "The efforts and enthusiasm of the alumni were largely responsible for the success of the rushing campaign," the chapter correspondent writes, "and for this the active chapter is truly grateful."

RHO CHAPTER
Jefferson Medical College

All the active members of the chapter have returned for what is hoped will be another successful season. The chapter house has been painted and the various rooms refurnished and redecorated.

The chapter has pledged the following nine men: F. X. Bauer, J. Bigley, P. Byrnes, C. Cubberly, L. Frank, E. Horn, R. Rich, Jr., R. Scruggs, and H. Tattersall. G. Noel and H. Stevens, of Chi Zeta Chapter, have transferred to Jefferson from Wake Forest College and are now affiliated with Rho Chapter.

At the Freshmen Smoker the chapter was honored by the presence of Dr. A. C. Morgan, professor emeritus of medicine at the Temple University school of medicine, as the chief speaker. Dr. Norman Macneill, who was elected vice-president of the Grand Chapter at the recent convention, also spoke.

Among the chapter's October guests was one of its founders, Dr. Lewis R. Talley, prominent surgeon of Temple, Texas. Dr. Talley attended the convention of the American College of Surgeons held in Philadelphia. Other visitors during the month were Doctors McCahy, Coppolino, Roederer, Thomas, and Castello, and several members of Lambda Phi and Alpha Lambda chapters.

The annual Student-Alumni Smoker was held on November 2, with a large number of alumni in attendance, among them Doctors Macneill, Seelaus, Coppolino, Castallo, and DeCarlo.

N. Henry has been elected steward for the remaining part of the school year to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of L. Remley.

Dr. W. S. Dellinger and Dr. R. E. Wise have obtained internship appointments in the York General Hospital. Dr. C. B. Slease will be located at the Western Pennsylvania Hospital, in Pittsburgh, and Dr. W. W. Focht at St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania.

IOTA CHAPTER
University of Nebraska

Iota has started the current year with the pledging of 20 new men, whose number brings the total membership of the active chapter to 74. The new men are: Stuart McWhorter, Hastings, Nebr.; J. Kreig, Henry, Nebr.; Robert Cochran, Lincoln, Nebr.; William Glenn, Falls City, Nebr.; Robert Hillyer, Lincoln; Reginald Randall, Pleasanton, Nebr.; John Heinke, Nebraska City; Richard Spradling, Lincoln; Victor Herrmann, Osceala, Nebr.; Robert Long, Grand Island, Nebr.; Dan Nye, Lincoln; and Frank Eagle, Fremont, Nebr.; William Deweese, Lincoln, Nebr.; George Hardt, Hastings, Nebr.; William Logan, Omaha, Nebr.; John Slaughter, Norfolk, Nebr.; Howard Slaughter, Norfolk, Nebr.; Frank Mossman, Omaha, Nebr.; Willis Taylor, Omaha, Nebr.; and Merlin Trumball, Dodge City, Kans.

The housing situation at the beginning of the school year was somewhat complicated because only three house men were graduated last spring. Room was finally made for 12 new men, the rest living out of the house.

The nine members who were graduated last spring obtained the following fine internships: Darrell Campbell, University Hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Houghton Elias, Strong Memorial, Rochester, N. Y.; Hayes Grimm and Robert Tinley, Presbyterian Hospital, Denver, Colo.; McCleery Glazier and Edward Shearburn, Clarkson Hospital, Omaha, Nebr.; G. A. Young, Jr., Ford Hospital, Detroit, Mich.; Frank Morrison, City Hospital, St. Louis; and Earl Slaughter, University Hospital, Omaha, Nebr.

House renovations this year include the purchase of new rugs for senior and junior rooms. In addition plans are being made for the installation of recreation rooms in the basement. These are not yet actually under construction but will probably be completed this semester. The plans call for ping-pong, billiard, and card rooms.

Iota is proud to announce that the chapter leads both fraternity and non-fraternity groups in scholarship for the past year.

Mention should be made of the following marriages within the active chapter ranks: John Krahl to Miss Virginia Jacobs; Clare Kos to Miss Dorothy McGinley; James Shafer to Miss Bessie Adams; Charles Impey to Miss Kay Conley; and Eugene Black to Miss Ella Bagely.

Fred Schlumberger, '34, who has a fellowship in the Cleveland Clinic, visited the chapter on October 1 and 2.

Vol. XXXIII December, 1936 No. 2

THIS journal is published by the Fraternity with the hope that it will be read by every living member and in an attempt to interpret the life of the medical student and the work of the Fraternity to the individual alumnus.

EDITOR'S REPORT

(Presented at the Mackinac Island Convention.)

This report from the office of the Editor of the JOURNAL covers the publication of Volume XXXI, numbers 2 to 7, inclusive, during the period 1934-1935, and Volume XXXII, numbers 1 to 6, inclusive, during the year 1935-1936. The Number 1 issue of Volume XXXI was published under the former editor and will be included in the financial report of the treasurer under the Journal Fund. An analysis will be made for those issues put out during my regime.

The Ann Arbor Press has had the contract for printing the JOURNAL during the past two years. This firm was selected not as a convenience to the Editor, as the firm happens to be in the same town as the Editorial Office, but because it was low bidder among several firms and because the quality of its work was found to be satisfactory. It is capable of handling a large volume of business, including several magazines, and has given very prompt service.

The set-up for publication and distribution of the JOURNAL is as follows: The mailing envelopes are purchased by the Treasurer. Each month they are addressed at the Central Office and shipped direct to the printer. The Ann Arbor Press prints the JOURNAL, stuffs the envelopes, obtains cuts as ordered, wraps and mails packages for the United States, and sends by express those for Canada. (Canadian custom regulations require this because of the manufacturing Jewelers' advertisement we carry. Declarations are made at the Express Office.)

No attempt is made herein to separate the various items of expense of the printing firm, the objective being to show the cost of the JOURNAL for the year as an aggregate sum and the cost per page and per copy in order to evaluate its worth in dollars and cents to the alumni and active members.

No advertising has been carried in the JOURNAL for years, but a clause was included in the official jewelers' contract providing for that firm to contract for a specified amount of space each year. Advantage has been taken of this agreement during the past two years.

Soon after taking over the JOURNAL, the Editor sent a questionnaire to members of the Grand Council requesting that they express an opinion as to whether or not advertising should be accepted to help defray expenses of publishing the JOURNAL. The consensus was that good, clean, ethical copy should be accepted. In order to obtain contact with advertising firms, it was necessary to engage a publisher's representative. It is almost impossible to sell advertising by mail, and it stands to reason that direct, personal contact by a representative already known to the firms and one who is experienced in promoting a new publication will obtain the best results.

The Fraternity-Sorority Advertising Corporation was selected at first, as it was embarking upon a plan to combine circulation of numerous fraternity and sorority magazines and sell space on that basis. This venture failed, and the firm collapsed before enough contracts were obtained to insure success. An agreement was then entered into with Parker and Tarbell of Detroit under which it was agreed to pay them a retainer's fee, their commission—if any space was sold—to be deducted from this fee. They put on an intensive campaign, sending letters to all national advertisers and personally contacting firms in their territory. Numerous letters have been received and various excuses made for not accepting space at the present time, some advertisers stating that their budgets were made up for the year and others that they advertised only in medical society journals. All the letters, both to the JOURNAL and to the publisher's representative, showed that the advertisers were impressed with the JOURNAL's unique character but that, as they had never attempted such a publication, they were reluctant to give a contract. (One talking point in selling space is that the JOURNAL is sent to every living alumnus and that the subscription increases steadily rather than fluctuates.) Mead Johnson and Company finally signed a contract for one-tenth of a page in each of six issues. This, of course, is breaking the ice, and competitive firms are expected to consider the JOURNAL more favorably from now on. It is my opinion that the JOURNAL can be made to pay its own way by selling sufficient space. For the past two years, the official jeweler, Burr, Patterson and Auld Company, has paid the contracted amount per year for its space and reports favorably on orders received from this advertising.

The JOURNAL receives little financial support from the alumni, as it is not a subscription publication. Each year, slips have been included in two or three numbers requesting donations to the Student Loan Fund and Chapter International, a part of the contributions to the latter being allotted to the JOURNAL. The Editor receives no compensation for his services and there is no office rent. An allowance was requested and allowed for twenty dollars per issue for an assistant to do stenographic help. I was able to obtain for this work a student in the Department of Journalism of the University of Michigan, who assisted in make-up, dummy preparation, proof reading, and re-writing. All other expense incurred was for printing, distribution, address revision, and the collection of news items.

To reduce the number of returns bearing such reasons as "moved," "left no address," "deceased," "not at this address," ets., it was deemed advisable to begin a search for lost members. The returned Journal envelope, which is fourth class mail and cannot be forwarded, was sent to the Central Office. From there a first-class letter containing a return envelope and a blank to be filled in showing old and new address was sent to the lost member. In addition, the Central Office subscribed to the American Medical Association's revised list, which is furnished at stated intervals and shows the changes in address of all physicians. This list is checked at the Central Office and a big decrease has been noted in the number of returns in the past two years. A lost-member list was also published in the JOURNAL. Each JOURNAL that is returned costs approximately ten cents and consumes much more time of the Editor, the Central Office, and numerous other persons than would be the case if the individual in question had notified the Central Office that he had left his former address.

It has been a very difficult task to collect enough material to get out the specified number of Journals each year. During the 1934-35 school year, eight issues were printed—one under the editorship of Dr. Forman at Columbus, Ohio, and seven by the Ann Arbor Press. Five numbers consisted of eight pages and the other three were 12 pages each. During the past year, 1935-36, we were able to put out five eight-page issues and one of 12 pages. The news of the 1934 convention at Minneapolis furnished enough material to give us a flying start, but after it was exhausted, we were forced to use anything we could get as fillers. During the past two years, 14 of the undergraduate chapters have contributed nothing at all. Of the 19 chapters which did send in news letters, 12 were heard from only once. Numerous letters were written to prominent alumni, requesting that they contribute something for the JOURNAL, but in the majority of cases there was not even a reply. The older men furnished us with considerable material for the Dr. Forline Number, and Dr. A. C. Morgan of Philadelphia and Dr. Marshall Stewart could be relied upon to furnish several news items each month, mostly for alumni news. While we are grateful for these contributions it must be understood that a very short news item stating that someone has moved his office, etc., contributes very little toward making up 12 pages of nine-inch columns, three columns per page. Realizing that the JOURNAL is a one-man publication, we tried the experiment of appointing associate editors so situated geographically that they could furnish us material covering different sections of the country. About thirty letters were sent out, and three men accepted.

Then, too, when in need of fillers, we could always call upon the Central Office for a list of lost members or recent initiations.

During 1934-35, 52,000 JOURNALS were distributed and in 1935-36, 53,400 JOURNALS were sent out at approximately the same cost per JOURNAL and the same cost per page as during the previous year. Cuts were ordered only when absolutely necessary. Every effort was made to reduce the printing cost. In the first few issues, Greek letters were used to designate chapters. This added to the make-up cost, as the linotype operator was required to stop his machine to pick up the Greek letter from his pi line. We found it more economical to spell the name of the chapter, and the appearance of the JOURNAL was not altered.

We have attempted to turn out the best possible sheet of a tabloid type. It is impossible to tell whether or not our efforts have been worthwhile, as we have no source of information on which to base or evaluate the reactions of our subscribers. To turn out the JOURNAL in the form it has been sent to you in the last two years, it has required about thirty hours of work a month, practically all of which has been done outside of office hours. It is impossible in a busy laboratory with numerous interruptions to attempt to sort out material, to re-write that which must be adapted to a particular style, or to prepare news articles or editorials.

I advised Dr. Elliott some time ago that other duties were more demanding of my time and that I would be unable to accept the editorship for another term. My recommendations are that a young man, preferably one with some journalistic experience, be assigned this task and that he be given a monetary consideration to compensate him for his time and thereby allow the JOURNAL to grow up in his hands. I also feel, as stated, that the JOURNAL can be put upon a paying basis by selling advertising space. At present, it is an expensive item to the Fraternity and, as you can see from the Treasurer's report, a considerable portion of the JOURNAL expense is paid by the undergraduates. I doubt very seriously that our present mailing list of almost 9,000 could be maintained if the JOURNAL were put on a subscription basis. A subscription price of $1.00 for three years would pay the cost of printing and mailing, but would not cover the cost of collecting unpaid subscriptions or of the added bookkeeping necessary in keeping subscriber accounts.

Some steps must be taken to maintain the JOURNAL as a contact with the alumni. Probably it should be reduced to fewer issues per year, but kept in tabloid form. These are not recommendations—only suggestions—and it is for the Delegates and Grand Council to decide the future policy of the publication and for the future editor to follow the plan outlined for him.

AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Zeta alumni and Phi Rhos everywhere will no doubt be interested in the following letter received by Dr. Wiilliam Bromme, Zeta, from the widow of Dr. Roy Bishop Canfield, beloved "father" of Zeta Chapter in whose memory the Canfield Memorial Lectureship has been established in the University of Michigan School of Medicine:

Dear Doctor Bromme:

The tribute the members of Phi Rho Sigma have given Dr. Canfield in establishing as a memorial to him the "Dr. Roy Bishop Canfield Memorial Lectureship Fund" touches me deeply. They, who knew him well, knew that his profession and his fraternity—standing for the highest ideals in that profession—were the great motivating factors of his life. No memorial could have been more pleasing to him.

Please express to his Brothers in Phi Rho Sigma my deepest appreciation. In their memory, and through their splendid memorial to him, his work lives on.

Cordially yours,
Leila Canfield

ROLL OF HONOR

The first chapter to pay Grand Chapter dues for the current year is Alpha Lambda, of Temple University. Under the Laws, prompt payment of the yearly dues, in full, entitles a chapter to a discount.

STEWART IN VOLUNTARY EXILE

A new contender for the title of "Most Isolated Phi Rho", hitherto the undisputed joint property of Doctors Shelton Connor and Tom Byrnes, has appeared in the person of Dr. Marshall Stewart, Alpha Lambda, formerly associate editor of the JOURNAL.

The careful reader of the JOURNAL may recall that in the March, 1936, number Dr. Connor protested indignantly that he and Dr. Byrnes had not been accorded the recognition which their position of "150 miles north of Sioux Lookout and the C.N.R." so justly deserves. He told an awesome tale of a country where, in the winter, fast-frozen lakes serve as landing fields for skii planes, and which, in the summer, is two-thirds water and the remainder breeding ground for black flies.

Now Dr. Stewart writes an equally stirring description of waterbound Isle Royale, where, 60 miles from the shore of Michigan's Upper Peninsula, he will be locked up for four months after December 1 as physician for the Isle Royale National Park Project's "American Foreign Legion." "The object of the forestry department," Dr. Stewart writes, "is to build fire breaks and burn brush in the winter to prepare this vacation-land for summer tourists." Over one-third of the island, which is 30 miles long and closer to Canada than to the United States, was burned by forest fires last summer. The "Legion" has its own broadcasting system to keep in touch with the mainland, Dr. Stewart explains, and in case of need it is possible to land a skii plane on the island. He expects to remain in his self-inflicted exile until next summer but until then will be "probably the most isolated doctor in the United States."

CHAPTER ETERNAL

Dr. Edward Milton Brown, Alpha '93, one of the first initiates of Phi Rho Sigma, died in Chicago, Illinois, during October, 1936.

The History of Phi Rho Sigma (1912) after describing the organization of the Fraternity by Milbank Johnson, T. J. Robeson, H. H. Forline, J. A. Poling, and L. E. Bonn, states that the first initiation was held in Dr. Johnson's room at the Northwestern University medical school "either just before or just after the Christmas holidays" in 1890. "Just who were first to be initiated," the History says, "is not known. O. O. Witherbee, J. E. R. Hawley, W. M. Burroughs, B. O. Nobles, and E. M. Brown were among the number."

Dr. Brown was always very much interested in the Fraternity and, through his efforts, many younger men enjoyed unusual opportunities in the medical field.

Matthew W. Brucker, Jr., a junior class member of Alpha Chapter at Northwestern University, died on June 13, 1936, of an adeno-carcinoma of the cecum. He was the son of Matthew William Brucker, Omicron '06, prominent Chicago otolaryngologist.

Dr. Raymond O. Hathaway, Epsilon '13, of Monroe, Michigan, died of erysipelas on July 15, 1936, after a nine-day illness. Forty-six years of age at the time of his death, Dr. Hathaway was a member of the staff of the Monroe Hospital and Clinic for twelve years, specializing in obstetrics. He was formerly a member of the Monroe County Medical Society.

Dr. Lovick T. Pattillo, Chi Beta, a leading physician of Atlanta, Georgia, died there at the age of sixty on May 12, 1936, of carcinoma of the larynx. Dr. Pattillo was born in Buford, Georgia, moving during his boyhood to Florida, where he was graduated in 1901 from the University of Florida. He later enrolled in the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons (now Emory University), from which he received his M.D. He interned at the Grady Hospital, Atlanta, and for several years was bacteriologist for the state of Georgia.

Dr. William Duffield, Delta '95, one of California's best-known physicians, died of a heart attack at his home in Los Angeles on September 9, 1936. Dr. Duffield was born in Bloomfield, Iowa, and studied at the University of Iowa and the University of Pennsylvania, completing his medical education at the latter institution. He was first in practice at Tampico, Mexico, as surgeon for the Mexican Central Railway Company, later moving to Phoenix, Arizona, and to Los Angeles in 1906. He served as councilor to the California State Medical Association for six years and at one time was in charge of the Barlow Medical Library in Los Angeles. Before moving to California, Dr. Duffield was president of the Arizona Medical Association. He served in a similar capacity in the Los Angeles County Medical Association, the Southern California Medical Association, and the Clinical Pathological Society.

Dr. William Armstrong Byrnes, Beta, died in San Diego, California, on May 9, 1936 after an illness of several months. He was 45 years of age at the time of his death. Born in Minneapolis, Minnesota, Dr. Byrnes attended the University of Minnesota and received his M.D. from the medical school of the University of Illinois. He entered the World War in April, 1917, served as surgeon on the U.S.S. Leviathan and as medical officer on the U.S.S. Nebraska, and was with the Army of Occupation at Coblenz, Germany. He was surgeon for the First Battalion during its operations in the Argonne-Meuse sector and in 1918, while serving as captain of the sixth regiment of the United States Marines, was poisoned by gas and injured by an exploding shell. For these disabilities he was retired with the rank of lieutenant, senior grade, of the United States Navy.
